Largest Class In History of Home Finishes

41 Children Awarded Diplomas at Close of Exercises on April 20

Rev. A. V. Gibson, of Sanford, Delivered Commencement Address on "Business of Living."

Ace Medal To Paul Horne

Grover Ingram Was Valedictorian and Jack McCall, Salutatorian

Forty-one graduates, who represented the largest class in the 50-year history of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home and which also represented a total of 408 years of child care, on Monday night April 20th were awarded diplomas at the finals of the 1942 graduation exercises. The presentation of these followed a stirring commencement address on "The Business of Living" delivered by Rev. A. V. Gibson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Sanford and after other specific awards to outstanding students of the past school session.

The final program was opened with the salutatory address delivered by Jack McCall, second honor student for the four high school years, and it was closed with the valedictory address by Grover Ingram, who had the highest scholastic average of all 41.

Paul Horne, who has been in the Home here for 16 years, which is the longest span of time for any graduate, was presented the ace medal. He was the choice of the workers and the high school students, all of whom voted for the boy or girl who, in their opinion, had been the most consistent throughout the entire stay at Barium Springs.

The music improvement medal was presented to Elizabeth Robards, and the Brown Bible medal for proficiency in Bible study and other specific memory work went to Marjorie Lail. Scholarship prizes in the high school were awarded to Billy Everett, Ruth Cole, Ben Lewis, Jack McCall, Grover Ingram and Mott Price. Grammar school scholarship prizes were given Maggie Katen, Horace Denton, Kathleen Monroe, Betty Jo Smith, Lucille Smith and Jerry Young.

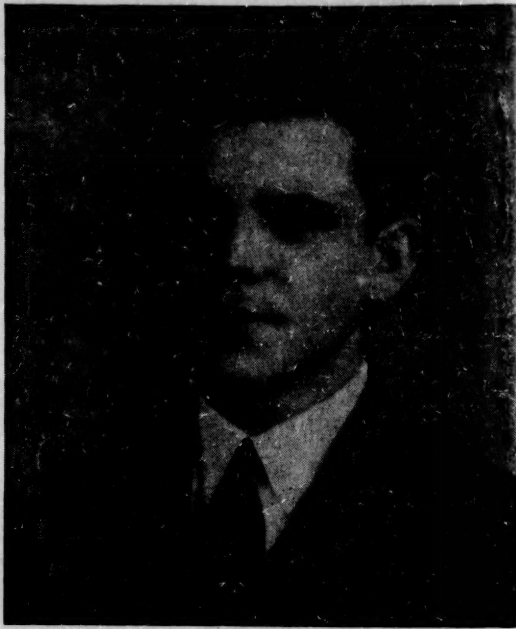

The four girls and four boys showing the greatest improvement during the school term were given special prizes of $2.50 each by Fred W. Sherrill, of Statesville. They went to Janie Smith, Mary Alice Stevens, Dewey Belle Buie, Lillie Bryant, Gene Dunn, Herman Blue, Douglas Ryder and Ernest Stricklin. Each graduate was presented a Bible with his or her name inscribed on it in gold letters.

A packed auditorium listened attentively as the Sanford Presbyterian minister talked about the "Business of Living". He prefaced his remarks by saying that living was such a regular sort of occupation, day in and day out, year in and year out, and that each day's living greatly depended upon how the day before was spent. Mr. Gibson said that each person could "run away from it, run with it, take life and run it, or yield that life to One who is greater than all humanity."

He elaborated by saying that the person who ran away from life was one who lived within himself, but nobody has much luck trying to get away from themselves. The one who runs with life is following the easy path, taking the line of least resistance. The one who takes life and runs it gets something out of it, but the individual who follows the best way of yielding, lives the richer and fuller life.

All of this was preliminary to the offering of some suggestions as to how one can walk from day to day and not faint. As his first

Civic Clubs Attend Annual Supper Here

Despite disagreeable and inclement weather, members of the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, and their guests, of Statesville and Mooresville flocked to Barium Springs on the night of March 27th for the 19th annual civic club dinner served at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home since the inception of these get-together events. Officials thought at first that the weather would make large inroads into the attendance, but visitors were evidently remembering former affairs and did not let the rain interfere with their coming. * * *

After Mr. Johnston left the ship "Roliki" two husky sailors, Ernest Stricklin and Billy Lindsey came up to swab the deck. In the process they became involved in a scuffle, but this was interrupted by the arrival of Paul Horne, captain of the ship and master of ceremonies for the evening's entertainment. After giving them explicit directions and the completion of their tasks, he rushed them off and then announced to the assembled people the beginning of the evening's program.

First number was the band of 26 miniature pieces, directed by Peggy Joyce Land who led them in playing "Anchors Aweigh." The little band leader occupied an upraised platform for her direction, and the members were attractively attired in red and white uniforms and caps.

The famous character "Popeye, the Sailor Man" was greeted by Captain Horne. This was Montague Cook, with a corn-cob pipe sticking out of the corner of his mouth, his hat at a rakish angle and the muscles of his arm bulging. After strutting up and down the deck in Popeye's famous manner and in singing his song, Ernest Stricklin entered the scene. An argument briefly followed, Popeye went over to his can of spinach and then this 30-pound Popeye with a single wallop knocked out the 185-pound Stricklin.

The Easter parade followed. This was participated in by six Baby Cottage girls who paraded what the well-dressed woman would be wearing in the coming Easter season. These little girls, Bulletin.

During the church year of 1941 - 1942 the Synod of North Carolina contributed its greatest total in 15 years to the support fund of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home, according to an announcement from the treasurer's office after the books were closed in April. The grand total of regular and Thanksgiving Offerings was $96,143.88, with the previous best sum being $109,372.03, which was donated by the Presbyterians of North Carolina in 1927-1928.

The recently ended church year was a period when the Barium Springs Orphanage was celebrating its semi-centennial anniversary, and the liberality toward the support fund was among the many outstanding occurrences of the past 12 months. The next largest total in the last 14 years was $95,274.42 given in 1936-1937 when intensive efforts were successfully made to pay off a mortgage indebtedness on the Presbyterian Orphans' Home.

408 Years of Care

The 41 boys and girls who graduated on April 20th from the schools at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs, represented a combined total of 408 years as members of the family in the Home here. This is an average that is a fraction less than 10 years for the 21 girls and the 20 boys who were awarded their diplomas at the final exercises on the 20th.

One of the members had been at Barium Springs for 16 years, five others were in the family for 15 years and another 14 years. It means that all of these started originally in the Baby Cottage, for they were under six years of age when accepted into the Home. The largest group for any particular period was six, who were at Barium Springs 12 years each. One graduate was here a year and a half, and the next shortest stay was four years made by three of them.

2 Excellent Sermons Delivered on April 19 to the 1942 Graduates

Rev. R. L. Alexander, of Lumberton, Spoke on "I Have a Glory" At Morning Service.

Large Audiences

Rev. Cliff McLeod, of Mooresville, Spoke on "Foundation of the Good Life."

"I Have a Glory" and "The Foundation of the Good Life" were subjects of two sermons delivered at Barium Springs on Sunday, April 19th as part of the 1942 graduation exercises. The first was used by Rev. R. L. Alexander, of Lumberton, in delivering the baccalaureate address and the second was the subject of Rev. Cliff H. McLeod as he spoke to the assembled young people's societies.

"There is glory in what you have done, and there is glory in the days ahead," said the Lumberton minister. "The world and Barium Springs say to all of you graduates that the glory of going on ought to be the sunrise of a new day. The world is not finished; it is just begun. The world needs great people of every kind—people who are not only great but who are also good; who are not only proficient, but who are also profoundly Christian."

Rev. Mr. Alexander asserted that it had been said that the young people were without objectives, "all dressed up and no place to go, no cause to which you are consecrated and nothing for which to die." He said that this was all changed now, and that the flame of conviction and consecration had been kindled. After the present conflict is over, he felt that it would be glorious to have a part in building a new world.

The minister warned that circumstances, difficulties and personalities will knock you down but he urged them to "come back like a pack of fighting wildcats." He further maintained that the graduates would be living in a difficult world and the devil would be masquerading as an "angle of light." "How may we discriminate?" he asked.

He gave the answer by suggesting that the boys and girls remember the standard of their home at Barium Springs, declaring he was sure that wherever they were "something deep down in you will say 'no'. Remember what you

Music Recital

On April 4th, some of the pupils of Miss Laura Gray Greene, teacher of piano at Barium Springs, offered a delightful program to an appreciative audience in the annual recital that is presented at this time of the year. Assisting in this year's program were the senior and junior glee clubs under the direction of Miss Mary MacGoogan, who is in charge of public school music and the church choir in addition to her teaching in the second grade. The complete program follows:

Polonaise in A, Chopin, Elizabeth Robards.
Canzonetta, Schiitt, Evelyn Coppedge.
Cabaletta, Lack, Dixie Lee Buie.
The Green Cathedral, Hahn; Amarylis, Ghys, Junior Glee Club.
Country Gardens, Percy Graininger, Betty Whittle.
Second Arabesque, Debussy, Sarah Parcell.
Venetian Love Song, Nevin, Margaret Jarvis and Louise Everett.
Juba Dance, Dett, Martha Price.
Goodnight, Nevin, Lillie Bell Smith.
Sylvia, Speaks, The Builder, Cadman, High School Glee Club.
Prelude (C Sharp Minor), Rachmaninoff, Margaret Jarvis.

News From the Cottages At Barium

BABY COTTAGE.

Second Floor.

This is the Baby Cottage girls bringing you all the news about the Easter Bunny. We had an Easter egg hunt Saturday afternoon at the football field. Thank you, Mama O'Kelly, for the good time.

Some people from Goshen Church in Belmont brought each one of us an Easter basket. We thank you so much, friends. Come back to see us again.

Helen Barnes, Louise and Barbara Bradshaw, Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Jackie Porterfield, Peggy Ann Collins, and Janie Smith have all had visits from their people since we wrote you last.

Our school will soon be out, and we will be glad because some of us will be in the second grade, and some of us will start next year. Also it will soon be time for us to take off our shoes and play in the sand.

Three of our girls have been sick since last month. Two of them are back with us, and we hope the other one will soon be well.

—The Baby Girls.

BABY COTTAGE.

First Floor.

It has been a long time since we have written you, for we have failed to do so the last two months.

We are certainly glad that spring is here and that school is almost out so we can play outdoors longer.

Since we have written you, we have had a little new boy come live with us. His name is Robert Fry. We surely hope he likes his new home.

We hardly believe that school is almost out, but most of us will be glad to see vacation time come. We can hardly wait to go in swimming.

Commencement is almost here and Ed Traywick, Clyde Dellinger and Everett Vest, our school boys, are going to be in it.

Our smallest boy, Boyce Dean Smith, is down at the Infirmary with the sore throat. We hope he is well by Easter, for we are all looking for the "Easter Bunny" to give us a treat.

Johnny Collins and Clyde Dellinger had a visit from their mother and father, respectively. Remember, you are always welcome (after 3:30 P. M. for that is our rest period).

The peach blossoms are a thing of beauty and a joy forever. The peaches will be more than a joy.

Billy Burke wanted to April fool somebody but he was a day late so he fooled them and then said "April, the 2nd."

The bus to the little boys is still the "bloodhound bus".

We liked "Dumbo" real well. We like to go to the barn and see the horses, especially the run away horse.

Mrs. Massey was our Kindergarten teacher while Miss Hardin was away. Come again soon Mrs. Massey.

We have some very pretty pictures and want to thank our unknown friend.

We thank Mr. Irvin for the candy treat.

We close with a quotation from Byran: "Always laugh when you can; it is a cheap medicine. Meriment is a philosophy not well understood. It is the sunny side of existence."

Be looking for us, next month.
—Baby Cottage Boys

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear Readers and Friends,

Another month has gone by and warm weather tells us that summer is approaching. School is almost out, and we are thinking about new dresses for commencement exercises, costumes for our operetta, and the like. We can hardly wait until school is out, so we can get off our shoes and get on our playsuits.

We had a very nice and eventful Easter. On Saturday, we had an egg hunt. On Easter Morning, at the regular church service fifteen of our girls were baptized. During the week preceding Easter, so many of our friend sent us lovely Easter baskets, Easter bunnies, and cakes. We really do thank you every one for your graciousness and your thoughtfulness.

There were two girls who received show tickets last month: Elsie Marie Vest and Betty Lou Williams.

Last week we all saw Sabu in "The Jungle Book". It was terrifying, but very good. We enjoyed it very much, thanks to Mr. Johnston.

Our cottage, along with the Howard girls, is very proud to say that we helped to pay the balance of the money for Mrs. Zenn's support.

We have been very busy studying for our examinations and practicing for our school closing exercises.

So long and thanks for listening!

—Annie Louise Girls

INFIRMARY

Here we are again to bring you the news of the Infirmary.

School is just around the corner to close and everyone is glad. Then we can start going to camp and going in swimming, both of which everyone enjoys very much.

Since we last wrote we had the following new children to come and live with us: Bradley Jean, Kenneth and Billy Manus. We hope they are making this as their home and enjoying the sport we all enjoy.

We have had only a few sick and they were not very serious. Ida Belle Dunn has returned from the hospital from an appendix operation, from which she is recovering very nicely. She will soon be ready to return to her cottage.

Tuesday night the Virginia Hall Circle girls went to the skating rink. Miss Carpenter, head of the Circle, went with us and we all had a good time. Miss Andrews took some boys and girls to the skating rink. Martha Price from here went and had a grand time.

The seniors will soon be leaving and we will miss them a lot, but we are hoping they will all be coming back to see us in the future.

We were very glad to have Mrs. Barrett, Mae Allen's mother, here for a day or two last week. We are always glad to have visitors, so hurry back.

The news has run out, but be looking for us next month for we will be on the air again with the high light news of the Infirmary.

—Beulah Baldwin

thought, the speaker urged the graduates to accept life and the world as it is. "You can get a much better life dreaming about it," he said, "but there are responsibilities upon us that we must face. The reason for the present agony of the world is that we believe too much in dreaming and not in bringing it to pass. Wishful thinking will not change it. We won't be better people, more loyal, more faithful and more sincere until we determine in our hearts and then only will we press on to a better life and better things."

The second suggestion was that "we shall accept ourselves". He asserted that a good many people are not willing to admit their faults, but he was certain that "great people recognize that they have limitations. When you acknowledge these only then can you live better and begin constructively. Each one has individual gifts and we are thankful that we have a diversity of these."

"We must accept other people" was a third point. "The trouble is that we want other people to be like we want them to be. You can't make people and the world over in a moment. Try to cure by love and a ministry of the Spirit. Admire people for what they are and can do, and don't censure them for what they can't do. A great asset is to understand, appreciate and love people even though they do have faults."

As a final suggestion, Mr. Gibson told the seniors that "you've got to have a faith to live by. You must have a self that is fit to live with, a task that is fit to live for, and with that faith to live by, you then have your God, your self and your work. The world needs you," he said in closing, "to love it back into submission."

with all of their finery and corsages, were Linda Inman, Shirley Johnson, Sylvia Buie, Jackie Porterfield, Mary Frances Morris and Lois Dellinger.

Clifford Barefoot, dressed as a blackfaced man, came to the deck to render a harmonica solo. He was introduced by Captain Horne as Henry Hubert Jones.

Hazel Walker's solo "White Cliffs of Dover" was immediately followed by the Blue Danube Waltz which was prettily performed by Mary Morgan, Gwendolyn Landrum, Ila Lee McBryde and Ann Pope. All five of these performers were from Howard Cottage. Pleasant Norman sang "Road to Mandalay", and as a conclusion to the program, Peggy Joyce Land, the band leader, led the several hundred people in

HOWARD COTTAGE

These are the bean stringers back with you again. It won't be long before school is out.

We had a very nice Easter. We hope each of you did. Miss Burgess and Miss Hardin took us and the Annie Louise girls on an egg hunt. Boy, we sure did enjoy it.

The two girls from each cottage that found the most received a prize. The winners were Betty McMannen and Carolyn Wicker (Annie Louise) Nellie Isenhour and Gwendolyn Landrum (Howard).

It won't be long before we start going in swimming and stringing beans.

The girls that received show tickets were Willie Mae Robinson and Ernestine Baldwin. We wish to thank the teachers for everything they have done for us in the past year.

The following girls have had visits from their people: Ann Pope, Helen Morgan, Ann Wicker, Virginia Presnell, Margaret Bullard, Nellie Isenhour and Willie Mae Robinson.

We went to the show last week and saw "Jungle Book". We enjoyed it very much.

We will be back with you next month. So long. Look out for us.

Miss Laura Gray Greene was pianist for the evening, and the entire program was under the direction of Misses Mary Stuart MacGoogan and Margaret Bell.

have learned here. The evil one is ambidextrous and snoops up on us unawares, often times like a dive-bomber, but there is always the sanctuary of the soul - the still small voice within. You go out into the world under the auspices of Christ, and there is glory in going on if you will go with Him and His spirit.

"The world is a prison house of sin, war and destruction" said Mr. Alexander but he maintained that it could be set free. There was only one way, though, and this was advanced as "the old, old story of the Savior's love - the sweetest story ever told. The Savior will lead us to righteousness and peace, finding boys and girls who live a life of glory."

Sermon to Young People

In the night sermon, Mr. McLeod cited four things as the foundation of a good life. "Remembrance of our personal relationship to God, remembrance of a stewardship of life, remembrance of His blessings and His providence to us, and storing in your hearts and lives those things which will help you" were the four essentials.

The Mooresville pastor began his sermon by stating that he knew that there were various voices calling and mentioned nazism, communism, the agnostics and atheists, all of which say "follow us, for we are the true voices of life. These philosophies of the world know that their strength must come from the youth of the land, else their cause is lost. Such voices will all lead to destruction and despair if you follow them. What shall we do? What shall we cling to?"

He then proceeded to elaborate upon his four remembrances, but summed up the whole situation first by saying that all that the world needed was redemption. He felt that the foundations he was going to suggest would stand sure in all thing about the individuals.

"Remember," he said, "that we are God's by creation, and also you have been bought with a price. Secondly, our stewardship of life represents an obligation to God and to your fellowmen and you should freely give of your time and your talents. You do not have to wait until you grow old to do this" and he then mentioned the various young men who had accomplished so much so early in life, ending up with Christ.

As a third thing, he urged his hearers to remember God's providence and blessings and His directing power. "Your individual problems are just as trying as the world problems, and it is then that you will need Christ." Finally, he told them that they should continue storing up things for the future; that some of the things they have been storing up may have seemed useless, but "later you will know that you have a sure foundation."

He closed with a warning not to come up to their old age with bitterness in their hearts, nor regret over the life they have lived. He cautioned them to do those things which time and memory cannot erase. Build up a faith, he said, that will stand you through the years.
